Rhea was only six weeks old when she joined the family. Imani was a student at UConn when she adopted the little German Shepherd puppy with big paws, a fuzzy belly, and ears much too big for her head.

From that very first day, Rhea was home.

Rhea grew, and grew, and grew. Her ears stood tall and pointy. Her coat was tan and black, and her brown eyes were warm and kind.

Rhea was a splendid dog, and she was part of the family.
